

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

DEDICATED

THE MEMORY OF

FORDHOOK HOUSE.

(Ancient Portion.)

PREFATORY REMARKS.

Amongst the private effects of my father, the late William E. Barber, of West Chester, Pa., were several papers containing many facts relating to the ATLEE family, which his love for antiquarian studies had prompted him, during a busy life, to collect for preservation. Much of the information contained in his notes was procured, many years ago, from his maternal grandmother (a daughter of COLONEL SAMUEL JOHN ATLEE), whom the writer distinctly remembers as a remarkably lovely and bright old lady of ninety years. The task of properly arranging this material has now been finished. Portions of the record which were wanting have been supplied, and the results of two years' labor are given in the following pages. Family Bibles, old letters, wills, diaries, wedding cards, unpublished records and ancient tombstones have been carefully consulted for names and dates long since forgotten, and many items of family interest have thus been brought together, which must otherwise have been scattered and lost. The most painstaking care has been observed in collecting and arranging the facts. Many conflicting statements were reconciled only after long and tedious correspondence, while, in some instances, no replies whatever could be elicited from those whose pleasure it should have been to assist in the work. In such cases, it became necessary to procure the desired information from other sources.

The method of writing the name varies in different branches of the family, as indeed it does amongst different members of the same branch, the use of the capital L (At Lee) being considered the older form. In writing the name, therefore, it has been my endeavor to conform, in each instance, to individual style.

I am grateful to all who have so generously and willingly given me their aid, and I take this opportunity of tendering them, collectively, my cordial thanks; but I am especially indebted, for much valuable assistance rendered, to Samuel Yorke AtLee, Esq., of Washington, D. C., to Dr. Walter F. Atlee, of Philadelphia, Pa., to Mrs. S. S. Nichols, of Morgan, Texas, to Wm. Augustus Atlee, Esq., of Lancaster, Pa., and to Mrs. Harriette S. Woodruff, of Cincinnati, Ohio. The book-plate exhibiting the ATLEE armorial bearings,—a lion, rampant, on a field, azure,—has been kindly furnished by Dr. Atlee, who possesses the original copper-plate, which was engraved, by order of the College of Heralds, in England, for his great-grandfather, JUDGE WILLIAM AUGUSTUS ATLEE, of Lancaster, Pa. The portrait of the latter which appears in this volume, has been copied from a lithographic engraving, which was published at the expense of several public-spirited gentlemen of Philadelphia, after a wax likeness in the possession of Dr. John Light AtLee, of Lancaster, Pa. My only regret, in issuing this Record, is that circumstances beyond control have prevented me from incurring the expense of reproducing many other valuable portraits and interesting papers, which were brought to light during my genealogical researches, and kindly placed at my disposal.

EXPLANATIONS.

Abbreviations: b. born; bap. baptized; m. married; unm. unmarried; d. died; s. p. without issue; y. young (or in youth); grad. graduated; coll. college.

The Roman Numerals in parentheses relate to generations, commencing with WILLIAM ATLEE, the first to reach America.

The plan of the work: In order to avoid repetition, and for the sake of perspicuity, the work has been divided into sections, of which the issue of JUDGE W. A. ATLEE and COLONEL S. J. ATLEE form the heads. The genealogy of each branch is completed before the next in order is taken up.

FORDHOOK HOUSE.

(Altered Fortion.)

ATLEE, OF FORDHOOK HOUSE.

The origin of the name ATLEE is somewhat obscure. Occasional glimpses of it are obtained, in old English literature, extending up to the twelfth century, but an unbroken lineage cannot be traced back of the period of Charles II. In the Middle Ages, men frequently received their names from the places where they lived. One Sir Richard-at-the-Lee figures conspicuously in the ballads of Robin Hood, where he is represented as saying—

“An hondreth wynter here before,
Myne aunsetters knyghtes have be.”

Sir Richard's parents lived at the Lee, and the name of the locality was adopted as the surname of the family. As the language was modified by time, the name became Atte Lee, At Lea, and finally ATLEE or ATLEE.

Sir Richard was a fast friend of Robin Hood.* On a certain occasion, so the ancient ballad informs us, the famous archer befriended Sir Richard in the depths of the forest, when the latter was in trouble. Some time afterward, Robin, being closely pursued by the Sheriff of Nottingham, came with his men upon—

“A fayre castell,
A lytell within the wode,
Double dyched it was about,
And wall-ed by the road :

“And there dwelled that gentyll knyght,
Syr Rychard at the Lee,
That Robyn had lent his good,
Under the grene wode tree.”

* This noted outlaw died in 1247.

Sir Richard opened the gates of his castle to the outlaw and his men, and entertained them until the sheriff, who sought in vain to gain admittance, was forced to return to London. The latter was then ordered, by the king, to repair with all speed to the castle and capture the knight who had so boldly defied him, and the ballad goes on to say that the sheriff

“Awayted that gentyll knyght,
Syr Rychard at the Lee;
As he went on haukyng by the ryver syde,
And let his haukes flee.”

At length the knight was surprised, captured and carried off to Nottingham.

“Then the lady, the knyghtes wyfe,
A fayre lady and fre,
She set her on a gode palfray,
To grene wode anon rode she.”

Robin Hood, on hearing her story, hastened to Nottingham, and beheaded the sheriff.

Soon after, the king, with a few of his chosen knights, proceeded to Nottingham town, where he proclaimed to all assembled that

“He that wolde smyte of the knyghtes hede
And brynge it to me,
He shall have the knyghtes londes,
Syr Rycharde at the Le.”

The poet then narrates how the king disguised himself as a friar, and, with a few trusty comrades, rode into the greenwood and there met Robin and his merry men. After the two had tested each other's skill in archery and wrestling, the outlaw suddenly recognized his royal guest, and thereupon, we are told,

“Robyn behelde our comly kynge
Wystly in the face,
So dyde Syr Rycharde at the Le,
And kneled down in that place.”

The story then concludes by showing how the entire party returned to Nottingham, how a grand feast was held, in honor of the gentle knight and Robin Hood, and how the king restored to Sir Richard his lands, and "a good man he bad hym be."*

In another ballad Queen Katharine is made to exclaim:—

"Come hither to mee, Sir Richard Lee,
Thou art a knight full good;
For I do know by thy pedigree
Thou sprung'st from Gower's blood." †

The Richard Lee here mentioned, or Richard Atte Lee, as the name is given in some versions, was most probably a descendant of Robin Hood's friend.

Edward III, who ascended the throne in 1327 (or possibly his son, the Black Prince), gave a pension of £40 per annum to Sir John Atte Lee, who had been invested with knight-hood ‡ (in auxilium status sui manutendi), to assist in maintaining his dignity. This was probably the father of Sir Walter at Lee, of the lordship of Lee, in the Parish of Wibonbury, County of Chester, lord of the Manor of Mulsham,

* A Lytell Geste of Robyn Hode.

† The family of Gower was one of the most ancient and distinguished in Yorkshire. Some antiquaries believe its founder to have been Sir Alan Gower, Lord of Stittenham, said to have been sheriff of the county in the time of William I (about 1080).

"Sir Nicholas Gower was returned one of the knights of the shire, county York, in the 12th Edward III, to a great council summoned by Edward the Black Prince, then guardian of the realm, and held at Northampton, for which service, being in attendance fourteen days, he received the sum of £5, 12s." Burke's Peerage (See Duke of Sutherland, Earl Gower, etc.)

‡ "The Gate of Honour was not then shut against those who, wanting Riches, deserved well of their Country; for when Princes conferred such Dignities upon men of narrow Fortunes, they usually bestowed with them annual Pensions, or Lands. These Pensions are frequently mentioned in our Rolls:—Examples whereof are Sir John Atte Lee," etc. Ashmole's History of the Garter, p. 14.

Essex, in 1384, "who left issue Sir John at Lee, of Lee Hall, Knight, to whom succeeded John Lee (the first to drop the prefix at), and to him Thomas, father of John Lee, of Lee Hall, Esq." Maj. Gen. Charles Lee, of the Continental army, son of Gen. John Lee, of Cheshire, England, descended from this branch.

The Fordhook estate, which belonged to the ATLEE family for many generations, lies in the Parish of Acton, a short distance out of London. Although portions of the dwelling-house have been modernized within the past century or so, the original drawing-room, which was wainscoted in oak, in the year 1500, by WILLIAM ATLEE, remains unaltered. Another WILLIAM ATLEE, who died in 1699, without issue, by his will, dated 1695, devised the property to his wife (Elizabeth Bonfoy*) after the decease of his mother, SUSAN ATLEE, who held a life interest in the buildings and orchard, by virtue of a provision of the will of her late husband, JOHN ATLEE, gentleman. WILLIAM ATLEE's mother afterward married a Mr. Walker, and by some mismanagement the estate passed out of the family. Then a Mistress Hildyard came into possession, without buying, and she, in turn, made it over to a Mrs. Crowcher for an annuity during her life. In Lysons' "Environs of London," published in 1793, it is stated that "Ford Hook is the property of the Miss Crowchers. It is newly fitted up, and is, at present, in the occupation of Lord Hugh Seymour."

According to Thorne's "Handbook to the Environs of London," "Henry Fielding, the novelist, resided at Fordhook House (on the main road, near Acton) till his departure for Lisbon, June 26th, 1754." In the same book it is asserted that "Fordhook (Capt. G. Tyrrel, R. N.), once the residence of Fielding, the novelist, is a good mansion at the W. extremity of the vill. (Acton); from the W. side of it a series of country lanes and field paths (the pleasantest stroll out of Acton) leads to Twyford Abbey." Lady Byron, wife of the illustrious poet, also lived at Fordhook, it is said, and in the old drawing-room her daughter, Ada Augusta, was married, July 8th, 1835, to Lord King, Earl of Lovelace. When Dr. Walter F. Atlee visited the place, in the year 1851, Colonel Tyrrel (mentioned above by Thorne) held possession.

* Ealing House, in the Parish of Ealing (near Fordhook), belonged to the family of Bonfoy in 1691. Lysons' Environs of London.

In Weever's "Antient Funeral Monuments" it is stated that "One William Atte Lee, Esquire, lies buried in St. Mary's Church, in the abbey yard, in the Diocese of Norwich, in the County of Suffolk, one of the most antient churches in England." The ATLEES of Fordhook House are buried in Acton Church, near the chancel and next to the Walpole family.

GENEALOGY.

(I). I. WILLIAM ATLEE, of Fordhook House, England (second son of SAMUEL ATLEE, of Brentford), the first of the name to reach America, left home in March of the year 1733, with Lord Howe, as his private secretary, when the latter came over as Governor of Barbadoes. The former married JANE ALCOCK, daughter of an English clergyman, and cousin of William Pitt, the old Earl of Chatham. It is said that she was maid of honor to the Queen. The King and Queen wanted her married into the royal family, but she ran away and followed ATLEE to America. The ceremony was performed at Bridgeton, in the Parish of St. Michael, Barbadoes, on the 1st of June, 1734, "according to the Canons and Constitution of the Church of England," by Mr. Jos'h Brook, the curate, the minister being unwell and unable to be present. A few days after the wedding, the happy pair started for Philadelphia, where they arrived in about three weeks. They occupied a dwelling in Second street for some time, and subsequently took part of a house with Caleb Ranstead, in Market street, where their first child, William Augustus, was born, on July 1st, 1735. The family then removed to Trenton, N. J., where three other children were born to them. Here, it is said, the father became a contractor for transporting the mails through the adjacent region.

WILLIAM ATLEE died at Philadelphia, Pa., at Caleb Ranstead's house, and was buried, April 27th, 1744, in the yard of St. Peter's Episcopal Church. MRS. ATLEE died at Lancaster, Pa., January 18th, 1777.

(II). I. WILLIAM AUGUSTUS ATLEE, first son of WILLIAM and JANE ATLEE, was born in Philadelphia, Pa., July 1st, 1735, and baptized July 26th, 1735, by Mr. Cummins, Mr. Fordham and Mrs. Butler acting as "sureties." By the decease of his father, he was left, at an early age, in charge of his mother, two brothers and a sister, whom he supported, when only fourteen years of age, by his pen, as clerk in the Recorder's office at Lancaster, Pa. He studied law in Judge Shippen's office, and was admitted to the Lancaster bar on August 3d, 1758. He was married in Philadelphia, on August 31st, 1763, by the Rev. Mr. William Sturgeon, "agreeable to the form of solemnization of matrimony of the Established Church of England," to ESTHER BOWES SAYRE, daughter of John Sayre, of Elizabeth Town Point, N. J. He afterwards became an eminent counselor-at-law, and was appointed, August 16th, 1777, First Associate Justice

* It would appear, from certain family correspondence of the last century, that WILLIAM ATLEE, by a previous marriage, had a daughter, Elizabeth (afterwards Mrs. Phillibrown), who is said to have been left in England; but of this we possess no definite information. A Mr. John Phillibrown, son of the above-named Elizabeth, came to America, and died at Washington, D. C., in the year 1796.

MRS. MOSES WHITE.

of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, being re-appointed August 9th, 1784. He was associated with Chief Justice McKean. During the War of the Revolution he was Chairman of the Committee of Safety and Commissary and Superintendent of the arsenal, barracks and British prisoners, then at Lancaster. The fear with which the British regarded him is indicated in the following Tory verses of the day:—

“ We will, we must, tho’ mighty Laurens frown,
Or Hancock, with his rabble, hunt us down;
Should Atlee summon to his savage bar,
To tremble at his rod, be from us far.”

On August 17th, 1791, he was appointed President Judge of the First District Court of Pennsylvania, in the circuit embracing Chester, Lancaster, York and Dauphin counties. While on the bench at York, he was taken suddenly ill, and after suffering several days from a violent attack of bilious fever, died at his country seat, in the vicinity of Lancaster, Pa., on September 9th, 1793, and was buried in the yard of St. James’ Church, of which he had been a vestryman for a number of years.

In private life JUDGE ATLEE was respected by all who knew him. He was remarkably handsome in feature and courteous in manner, and his house was the resort of the beauty and intelligence of the surrounding country. His wife died July 6th, 1790, aged 42 years, 11 months and 6 days.

GENEALOGY.

(II). II. SAMUEL JOHN ATLEE, second son of WILLIAM and JANE ATLEE, was born at Trenton, N. J., in the year 1739. In early youth he commenced the study of law, but, at the age of sixteen, he was placed in command of a company of the Provincial Service from Lancaster county, and is said to have been present at Braddock's defeat. At the breaking out of the French and Indian war, when only seventeen years of age, he was commissioned lieutenant in Col. Clapham's Augusta regiment. In 1758 he served in the Forbes campaign. He was commissioned "Lieut. of a company of foot," January 2d, 1760, and soon afterward rose to the rank of captain. He was married, April 19th, 1762, by the Rev. Thomas Barton, to SARAH RICHARDSON, the accomplished daughter of a respectable farmer residing about eighteen miles from Lancaster, Pa., and settled on a neighboring farm. On March 21st, 1776, by resolve of the House of Assembly, he was appointed colonel of the State Battalion of Musketry, and his commission was issued April 6th. On the 27th of August, of that year, he achieved imperishable fame at the battle of Long Island, the first pitched battle of the war, where, after a brave resistance, he was overcome by superior numbers and captured by the British, who held him prisoner for more than two years, part of the time on board a prison-ship. After suffering many hardships, he was exchanged, on October 1st, 1778. He was elected a delegate to the Continental Congress, November 20th, 1778, and served almost continuously until October 28th, 1782. In October, 1783, he was elected a Supreme Executive Councilor for Lancaster county. He served in the General Assembly in 1782, 1785 and 1786. He was appointed, February 29th, 1784, by the Supreme Executive Council, one of the three Commissioners to treat with the Indians, going from Fort Stanwix (Rome, N. Y.) to Sunbury, and thence to Fort McIntosh (now Beaver, Pa.). His name appears as a witness to the signing of the treaty at the latter place, on January 21st, 1785, between the Commissioners Plenipotentiary of the United States of America, on the one part, and the sachems and warriors of the Wiandot, Delaware, Chippewa and Ottawa Nations, on the other. During this journey he contracted a severe cold, from which he never recovered, and while in attendance at the General Assembly in Philadelphia, ruptured a blood-vessel in a paroxysm of coughing, and died November 25th, 1786.

In 1779 the Council of Safety recommended to Congress his promotion to the rank of Brigadier-General of the State, and it is said that, at the time of his death, a commission had been made out for him.

No portrait of COLONEL ATLEE is known to exist. His daughter, Mrs. Mary Ann Whitehill, described him as possessing a fresh complexion, brown hair, blue eyes and portly form with military bearing, and he was said, by others, to have been one of the handsomest men in the army.

Sam. J. Atlee
Jan. 2: 1786—

The Independent Gazetteer or the Chronicle of Freedom, published in Philadelphia, under date of November 29th, 1786, contained the following account of his obsequies:—

“On Saturday the 25th instant, departed this life, in the 48th year of his age, COLONEL SAMUEL JOHN ATLEE, one of the Representatives for the County of Lancaster, in the General Assembly of this Commonwealth, and yesterday his remains were interred in Christ Church yard, with every mark of respect and veneration. Divine service was performed by the Rev. Mr. Andrews and the Rev. Mr. Blackwell. The corpse was preceded by the clergymen of the various denominations in this city, and borne from the house of Mr. John Helme, in Race street, to the grave, by the following gentlemen: General Humpton, Colonel Proctor, Colonel Williams, Colonel Farmer, Colonel Oswald, Colonel Mentges, Colonel Bayard, Major Tudor.

PALL BEARERS.

"Alex. Sowrey, Esq., Adam Hubley, Esq., Geo. Ross, Esq., Jos. Work, Esq., members for Lancaster county; Samuel Evans, Esq., member for Chester county; Wm. Will, Esq., member for city of Philadelphia.

"After the mourners, followed the Supreme Executive Council and General Assembly of the State, the magistrates, militia officers, and many other respectable inhabitants of this city.

"This worthy gentleman, in early life, devoted himself to the cause of liberty and his country. He acquired a knowledge in the profession of arms, as a captain in the Provincial Service, in the last French war in which America was engaged, and such was the unbounded confidence his fellow-citizens placed in his integrity and abilities, that they uniformly called upon him to fill some of the most important offices, both civil and military, at the commencement, and in the most gloomy periods, of our late Revolution. The duties of these several stations, which he always discharged with dignity and honor, engrossed almost the whole of his time and attention, and fully demonstrated his great worth and merit. And his character as a soldier will ever be remembered and revered by a grateful country, in whose righteous and exalted cause he not only impaired his constitution, but greatly lessened and diminished his fortune.

MEMORIAL TABLET,

Erected in Christ Church, Philadelphia, Pa.,

June, 1883.

"In the beginning of the year 1776, his country called him from a peaceful and happy retirement, and honored him with the command of a regiment in the service of this State. Here he displayed knowledge, decision and bravery, and in the memorable battle, the 27th of August, 1776, on Long Island, he acquired great honor by dislodging a British regiment from an eminence, which gallant action contributed much to lessen the calamities of that defeat. He afterwards sustained a long and rigorous captivity with firmness and dignity. His virtues and talents, after he was exchanged, continued to attract the attention of his country; hence, he was called to fill the various stations of member of Congress, Councillor, Assemblyman and Commissioner of the Indian Treaty which terminated so happily for the peace, honor and welfare of Pennsylvania. In all those elevated and important situations, he was firm, intelligent and faithful. In short, he had nothing more in view than to be in the right and to do good; and a few days before his demise he observed to one of his friends, on the way to the State House, 'That, though he did wrong in accepting his last appointment, as he found his health fast on the decline, yet it was his duty to do all the good he possibly could while he remained in this theatre of action.'

"Possessing uprightness of soul and sincerity in a very great degree, he scorned and rejected all the little schemes and artifices of temporizing politicians; and whenever he had occasion to speak of public men and public measures, he expressed his sentiments with becoming dignity, and with the boldness and independency of a freeman. The fatigues and hardships which he sustained in public life, we may venture to assert, laid the foundation and cause of his long and painful indisposition, which he bore with firmness and resignation.

"In domestic and social life he was no less amiable than he was, in public, respectable; evincing thereby that happy circle and consistency of virtues which mark and distinguish the noble citizen of a republic. His soul was tremblingly alive to honor, truth and friendship.

"Soldiers and patriots who can measure the merits of each other will often drop the tear of gratitude and affection to the merit of this soldier and patriot; while the sacred pen of history will record and hand down to posterity his name among the foremost of those worthies to whom Pennsylvania is indebted for her liberties and independence.

"He lived universally beloved and esteemed, and his death is equally regretted and lamented. He has left a disconsolate widow and nine children to bewail the loss of a tender and affectionate husband, and kind, indulgent parent.

"We cannot reflect on his many excellent qualities without the greatest admiration, nor think of his loss to the community, and to the honest soldier, in particular, without the most unaffected sorrow."

MRS. ATLEE died in Columbia, December 27th, 1823.

CONCLUDING REMARKS.

In the preceding pages, the genealogy of but two of the children of WILLIAM ATLEE and JANE ALCOCK has been carried out. The youngest son, JOSEPH EDWIN ATLEE, was a law student of considerable promise, at Lancaster, Pa., but died when about twenty-five years of age, unmarried.

AMELIA ATLEE, the fourth child, married PHILIP COLE, a gentleman of scientific attainments, and proprietor of extensive iron works in Maryland. They had issue several sons, who settled in various sections of the country, but it has not been found practicable to trace the genealogy of this branch. Margaret, the only daughter, married William Hughes, who succeeded his father-in-law in the iron business, in the vicinity of Hagerstown.

I cannot close these pages without acknowledging my indebtedness to Mr. Edward W. Seeger, of Springfield, Mass., for a corrected copy of The Descendants of William White, of Haverhill, Mass., by Hon. Daniel Appleton White, by the aid of which I have been enabled to complete the genealogy of the White branch of the ATLEE family, commencing on page 24. I must also extend my thanks to Dr. Walter F. Atlee, for the use of the plate representing the ATLEE memorial tablet, and to Samuel Yorke AtLee, Esq., for access to many valuable family papers.

ADDENDA.

THE EUROPEAN BRANCH.

THE DESCENDANTS OF JOHN ATLEE, OF TAUNTON, ENGLAND.

While it has not been ascertained beyond all doubt that the ATLEES of England and France are a collateral branch of the American family of that name, the general prevalence of the same family legends, through both branches, strongly points to a common origin. In a number of letters of Judge William Augustus AtLee, of Lancaster, Pa., written a short time before his decease, allusion is made to an Uncle John AtLee, of Taunton, a younger brother of the Judge's father. Amongst Judge AtLee's papers were also found copies of several letters written by him to this uncle, with replies from the latter in England, in which the relationship is mutually acknowledged, frequent reference being made to the old homestead, at Fordhook, which, through neglect and improper management, had been suffered to fall into the hands of strangers. An outline of the genealogy of the foreign branch is here subjoined.

(From COL. SAMUEL JOHN ATLEE, while prisoner of war on Long Island, to his brother, HON. WILLIAM AUGUSTUS ATLEE, Chairman of the Committee of Safety, at Lancaster, Pa.)

My dear Brother—

We have often been amused with the expectation of a general exchange of prisoners, but hopes have been, as often, frustrated. It is now again talked of, but how it may terminate time only must determine. I have, for your amusement of an hour, sent you enclosed a true and impartial statement of the transactions of the 27th of August, in which, I flatter myself, I bore no disgraceful part. You may, if you think proper, communicate the contents to some few of your friends and let them be judges whether I deserve censure or reward. I should not be displeased if Congress saw it.

I was, a few days ago, favored with a short visit from Jamney Sayre, who was then on his way to remove his family to Huntingdon, on this Island. He has promised, on his return, to make a longer stay, and to make what interest he could with his friends in New York to obtain my parole, in case an exchange does not take place.

I continue in perfect health ; but my supplies are nearly exhausted. I must beg a recruit as speedily as possible.

I am, &c., SAMUEL J. AT LEE.

Duty to mammy, and love

William Atlee, Esq.

(From HON WM. AUGUSTUS ATLEE, Esq., Chairman of the Council of Safety and Commissary of Prisoners.)

LANCASTER, September 8th, 1777.

SIR:—I returned yesterday evening from Lebanon, where the Hessian prisoners are stationed. There are at that place between 8 and 9 hundred of them, who are placed in the churches; those being the only public buildings to be had for their reception. While at Lebanon, the inhabitants requested I would endeavor to clear one of their churches, in which the ministers of the different denominations had agreed to perform Divine service alternately. The request seemed reasonable, and, hearing that the British prisoners whom I had sent to Reading were carried forward to Bethlehem, I sent an express to Mr. Waller at Reading, to know if about 300 could be accommodated there, but by his answer find they cannot. I should be glad we could remove some of them from Lebanon, as they appear to me to be too much crowded in the churches, and in danger of getting sickly; to prevent which, as much as possible, I have requested Dr. Oldenbruck to attend and administer medicine to them, until I can have directions from Dr. Shippen, to whom I write that he may appoint some person there to that charge; and have also desired Dr. Oldenbruck in the meantime to provide some suitable place as a hospital and in case any of them should fall sick, to remove them from the well and have them properly taken care of. Those churches will be rather too airy for them in the cold weather, and as the inhabitants seem desirous of having Barracks erected there, I make no doubt, if orders were given for that purpose, that such as would contain a thousand men would be up and under roof in a very short time, as the people, to regain their places of worship, would heartily join in forwarding the work. Stone and other materials for such work abound there. The situation is fine and healthy, and it is a good provision country. I was lately over at York, at the request of the Board of War, to examine the state of the prisoners at that place, who were reported to be sickly. The fever and fluxes which had been among them, had abated, and the chief of those who were unwell were in the smallpox, which had taken off 2 or 3. I carried over a blank appointment from Dr. Shippen, which I filled up for Dr. Jameson and prevailed on him to accept it, and have no doubt that he will take the proper care of them.

I want much to have a peep at some of the shooting matches, but seem to think my duty calls me first towards Bethlehem, to visit our children there, and to see what is done to the officers at Beartown. It is horrid expensive travelling. There are a few of the sick of the British prisoners here yet, I think about 40. When they can be removed without injuring them, I shall send them forward to their comrades. There are also a few of the Hessians yet abroad among the farmers, but not many. These I collect and send away as fast as I can; but those at the Laboratory, at Carlisle, and at other distant public useful works, I have suffered to remain. If needful, they shall be called in likewise.

Your most ob't serv't,

W. AT LEE.

(Letter to WM. RICHARDSON ATLEE, from his father and mother.)

DEAR SON:—You have this day, I think, attained your age of manhood, upon which your parents heartily congratulate you.

You must now throw off the youth and assume the man. Your Country, and probably the calls of a Family may in time demand your utmost attention and abilities.

The few of the name that have gone before you in America have almost run their race. The honors they have received from their Country I expect to see supported by you, until others shall arrive to assist you.

Many, very many, have been the cares and anxieties of your dear mother and myself, from your childhood up to the present time. The dawn of your active life gives us hope that the meridian and evening will more than compensate for all our troubles. That we may not be disappointed shall be our constant prayer.

The sallies of youth are viewed with a careless and forgiving eye; but from this day forward the scrutinizing eyes of the discerning and the worthy will be upon you, and every slip will be noticed to your disadvantage. Obtain by your affability, by your attention to business, your punctuality and sober deportment, the good will and esteem of all ranks of men.

Time, my son, is very precious; a moment now lost may cost you years to regain.

Your profession is honourable, your Country may, in many instances, seek your services; should that be the case, I hope it will not place its confidence upon an improper or an unworthy object.

In all the particular transactions of your profession, you have before you two worthy patterns, your honored uncle and master; strive to imitate and, if possible, surpass them. God bless you. Let us hear from you often. Present our loves to your uncle's, your aunt S——'s, and our compliments to your master's families.

Your affectionate father & mother,

S. & S. AT LEE.
